Compiling New Hampshire Bird Records

We continue our quest to publish the New Hampshire Bird Records on a timely schedule of four issues per year. Despite the lack of visible results, we have made great strides behind the scenes. Data entry for all seasons is up to date, we are preparing the first two 1990 seasons for publication, and all other seasons are with their seasonal editors. We appreciate your continued patience and support.

If you are not familiar with the New Hampshire Bird Records, a brief outline of the procedure follows. All bird sighting slips are received at Audubon House and entered into the computer. The computer printout then goes to the seasonal editor, who interprets the information and writes it up. It is then returned to ASNH where it is readied for final publication. Timely submission (monthly) of bird report slips greatly facilitates this process. A detailed explanation of the reporting procedures can be sent to any interested birder. If you have not reported and would like to receive this information, please contact Becky or Diane at ASNH.

We are excited to report that the number of sightings submitted continues to climb, with over 2000 received for spring of 1990. In response, we have had to implement a more rigorous editing format to keep down the cost of each issue. This means that not every record received will be in the published manuscript. However, each record will be computerized and archived in the files. All records are still of great historical value and it is still extremely important to maintain statewide coverage.

In the 1989 seasons you will find that entire species groups have been deleted. The phenomenon of missing groups results from a need to save space in the final publication, and reflects those species where reports were of little significance. A list of the missing groups and the names of all reporters can be found at the end of each season. Anyone who would like a copy of the full computer printout for a season may obtain one for a small fee. Please contact us directly if you are interested in this service.

We would like to extend our heartfelt gratitude to all the many volunteers who helped make this publication possible. We could not do it without them. A special thank you goes to Ruth Lang, Tom McMillan, Marie Neveu, Jill Simmons, and the four seasonal editors. Front and back cover illustrations are by Iain C. MacLeod. Thank you also to those who have made special monetary contributions to Bird Records. These go into a restricted fund which is used exclusively for New Hampshire Bird Records. This kind of support is extremely important and very much appreciated.

Good birding to all, and let us know what you come across.

Volume 8, Numbers 1, 2, 3 & 4 Spring, Summer, Fall & Winter 1989

New Hampshire Bird Records is published quarterly by the Audubon Society of New Hampshire as a member service. Bird sightings submitted to ASNH are edited for publication. A computerized printout of all sightings in a season is available for a small fee. To be included on the Bird Records mailing list, to order a printout, or to volunteer your observations for the Records, contact general editor Diane De Luca or managing editor Rebecca Suomala at ASNH, PO Box 528-B, Concord, NH 03302-0516; 603/224-9909.

Summer Season

June 1 through July 31, 1989

Volume 8, Number 2

Congratulations and many thanks to all contributors on a well-reported season. Because we are getting close to being on schedule, this support is especially timely. Keep up the good work!

Looking at the season overall, we see that the wet weather of late spring continued into June. Average precipitation across the state was one inch above normal. The area south of Coos Country accounted for most of this, while the region "north of the notches" was drier by comparison. In Maine, the rainy weather was a hardship for some early nesters, but few weather-related nest failures were reported in New Hampshire. Perhaps the warmer than normal temperatures helped bedraggled birds. The dry conditions in the North Country became severe in July, while the rest of the state had average precipitation and temperatures. All in all, conditions were conducive to a decent nesting season.

Historically, nesting season data has come from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's Breeding Bird Surveys (BBS). However, more and more data is now coming from the Endangered Species Program (ESP) and field days such as Osprey Weekend (note records for July 15–17 from the Umbagog region). This welcome trend provides us with more accurate numbers, which are reported here along with significant BBS numbers and trends. This mass of BBS data, from over 25 years work, becomes more and more valuable every year. Reporters interested in participating in the BBS may contact Diane De Luca at Audubon House.

The undisputed (and well-publicized) high point of the season was the return of a pair of Bald Eagles to the historic nest tree at Lake Umbagog. But the season's most exciting event to this editor was the Osprey nesting attempt at Great Bay. Wouldn't it be wonderful to one day have both eagles and Ospreys nesting at Great Bay?

The rest of the hawks were well-reported, as were shorebirds. Water Pipits continue to tantalize us as they vie for a place among our nesting avifauna. The total of 24 warbler species is good for the nesting season, but it includes only one rarity—a Cerulean Warbler. Waterbirds were well-reported overall, but why were American Bitterns low on the BBS routes and better-reported elsewhere? And what's the true status of Blue-winged Teal and Ring-necked Ducks, both with low reported numbers?

For several years now Tom Arter and Lynn Harper have spent a week on Star Island in late June, and it's always fascinating to see what they come up with. On June 26 this year they tallied a non-breeding Common Loon, a Wilson's Storm-Petrel (also a non-breeder), a Red-breasted Nuthatch, and a Least Flycatcher (both N.H. breeders, but certainly not on Star Island). Are these birds sub-adults that are not ready for breeding? Are they unsuccessful nesters? Are they late or early migrants? The allure of islands! I'm hoping to organize some day trips to Star Island during migration—give me a call if you're interested (783-9640).

As always, even the nesting season has its share of rarities, wanderers, and oddities. Among those not already mentioned are nesting Least Bitterns in at least one location, Snow Goose, Brant, Tri-colored Heron, an inland Little Blue Heron, Piping Plover, White-eyed Vireo and a Yellow-headed Blackbird. The apparent occurrence of at least one Red-necked Grebe and the possibility that it may have nested could have eclipsed the eagles as the highlight of the season. However, the details are sketchy, so we'll have to hope documentation can be obtained next year. This record has some credence as there is an old breeding season record cited in John Terres' Audubon Encyclopedia, but it seems very unlikely since at the present time the species nests no farther east than the Great Lakes.

Robert A. Quinn Seasonal Editor

Loons through Herons

The 467 adult Common Loons tallied by the Loon Preservation Committee produced 70 young this year, which is in line with numbers for the last several years. Double-crested Cormorants are being reported from a wider range of inland sites than ever before. The big story of the summer, if correct, would be the apparent nesting of Red-necked Grebes in Meredith.

Most of the herons, including American Bitterns, were well-reported. The honors for diligence in counting go to Steve Mirick, who tallied 153 immature Great Blue Herons at a Durham rookery. An immature Little Blue Heron inland had adequate substantiating details, but the Yellow-crowned Night-Heron did not have any details. A Tri-colored Heron was a treat. Green-backed Herons demonstrate the vagaries of bird reporting—none were reported before June 21, and the vast majority were seen during Osprey Weekend.

Waterfowl through Hawks

Waterfowl seemed to be better-reported than usual, but why didn't anyone see Blue-winged Teal at Lake Umbagog? Add to this question the puzzle of a large flock of Canada Geese, a Brant, and a Snow Goose, and you have a thoroughly confused editor.

At least there is no confusion over the significance of the successful (albeit human-assisted) nesting of Bald Eagles at Lake Umbagog. The unexpected Osprey nesting attempt at Great Bay was a highlight for this editor. The ESP reported that 21 pairs of Ospreys produced 19 fledglings.

How times have changed! It seems that Turkey Vultures are becoming so common that they do not arouse much attention, except in large flocks (40+) or when seen attacking some young Great Blue Herons on the nest, as witnessed by Betty Swift.

The ESP had eight pairs of Peregrine Falcons that fledged 10 young. Several Peregrine reports came from odd places—immature wanderers scouting future nesting sites, perhaps? A Broad-winged Hawk nested in downtown Manchester, and the rest of the hawks were fairly well-reported.

Grouse through Shorebirds

Early migrant shorebirds were reasonably well-reported this summer, with the Piping Plover the most noteworthy one. Since they are very early nesters, this individual could have been a post-nesting wanderer from Maine or Massachusetts rather than a local bird.

A Least Sandpiper and four Short-billed Dowitchers at Star Island in late June and the Ruddy Turnstone, Pectoral Sandpiper, and Sanderling in mid-July were all very early migrants. A Northern Bobwhite in Whitefield was rather unusual.

Among nesting shorebirds the Upland Sandpipers made the most news, with seven pairs producing at least 10 chicks at Pease Air Force Base. But even more impressive must have been the 37 "Uppies" at Pease in late July.

Gulls through Owls

A hearsay report of a Sandwich Tern would have been totally ignored if not for the fact that one was seen in Maine and two or three were reported from eastern Canada. Without a written record we can do no more than speculate on the presence of this species. A little better communication would definitely help us all!

Immature Bonaparte's Gulls apparently were with us through the entire season, and there was an interesting build-up of Ring-billed Gulls in Littleton. Common Terns at Star Island and Northwood Lake and a Roseate Tern at Seabrook Harbor were significant reports.

Nighthawks through Flycatchers

Common Nighthawks were widely but thinly reported: 62 birds in 16 towns (out of 32 surveyed). The report of a nighthawk in Errol is unusual.

Diane De Luca discovered a Belted Kingfisher nesting in a low embankment at the edge of—surprise—a logging road in the White Mountains. Downy Woodpeckers were low on the BBS, Yellow-bellied Sapsuckers continued low, and Northern Flickers hit a record low (34, against a median of 72).

Flycatchers are doing poorly as well, if the BBS is any indication. Olive-sided Flycatchers continue to be scarce, Great Crested Flycatchers were fewer than in recent years, Least Flycatchers hit their third-lowest total ever, and Eastern Kingbirds fell to their second-lowest total ever. However, Eastern Phoebes had their third-highest count ever, according to the BBS numbers.

Swallows through Creepers

As gauged by the BBS, swallows had a very poor year. Tree and Barn Swallows suffered through their third-lowest totals ever, and the dearth of Cliff Swallows was frightening (only 14, a record low by a wide margin and far below the median of 66). Numbers for Barn Swallows were equally grim (186, compared to a median of 418). Let's hope that this is only a momentary blip.

The paridae and corvidae seem to be doing well, with the Blue Jay's record low of 271 (median 396) being the exception. A Fish Crow spotted (and presumably heard) by Steve Mirick on the Dover BBS was only the second record for this species in the history of the surveys. Tufted Titmice, which first hit double figures in 1980, showed a record high of 67.

Wrens through Thrushes

Reports of Winter Wrens were a little lower than they have been the last few years, but the species has recovered well from the lows of a decade ago. No Carolina Wrens were reported.

After receiving only 11 Eastern Bluebird reports last year, I asked for more—and did I ever get them! Thanks mainly to Stacey Cole and his loyal readers, almost 300 pairs were reported from over 80 towns. In Rumney, Ann Kent's Annual Survey totalled 37 nesting pairs with at least 63 fledged young, up from 1988's total. Hermit Thrushes did well on the BBS, but Veery, Wood Thrush, and Swainson's Thrush were all scarce. The report of two Swainson's Thrushes in New London was most unusual.

Mimids through Vireos

The Northern Mockingbird population is leveling off, according to the BBS numbers, while Brown Thrashers are almost nonexistent, although a number were reported from around the state. Water Pipits were once again seen in appropriate nesting habitat on Mt. Washington, but nesting was not confirmed.

Two species of vireos made news. A Philadelphia Vireo was reported in an unlikely part of the state on the Concord BBS route, and a White-eyed Vireo was noted in Sugar Hill, which may well be the most northern record for that species.

Warblers

Warblers had their ups and downs, as is typical. BBS totals on the high side were tallied for Northern Parula, Yellow, Black-throated Blue, Yellow-rumped, and Pine Warblers. On the low side were numbers of Chestnut-sided, Magnolia, and Black-throated Green Warblers, and American Redstarts hit a record low after a decade-long decline.

The Cerulean Warbler that spent a day in Webster was the highlight of the season for this group. While the Tennessee Warbler in New London in mid-July could have been an unsuccessful nester from farther north or even an early migrant, the habitat is right for nesting and similar sightings have occurred in the past. Only one Cape May Warbler was reported, not surprising given the spruce bud worm's decline.

Tanagers through Sparrows

Northern Cardinals hit another record high on the BBS. Rose-breasted Grosbeaks have declined since their big increase in numbers in the late 1970's and came in at their third-lowest total ever. Meanwhile, the Indigo Bunting is on a population rise, reaching its fifth-highest total and being more frequent in the North Country than normal.

Sparrows recorded in low numbers on the BBS include Rufous-sided Towhee, Field, Savannah, and Song Sparrows. Chipping Sparrows, on the other hand, were recorded at their second-highest total ever and easily outnumbered Darkeyed Juncos on the northernmost BBS route (Clarksville).

Blackbirds through Finches

Except for Bobolinks and Red-winged Blackbirds—which were near record lows—most of the blackbirds were recorded in normal numbers. A photograph of an adult male Yellow-headed Blackbird taken in North Hampton on June 17 establishes one of the few summer records for this species.

While Purple Finches were low on the BBS, the House Finch continues its explosive population growth with another record BBS high of 202 birds (all the more remarkable since their first BBS record was in 1979). Evening Grosbeaks were thinly but widely reported from the southern part of the state again this summer.
